The Climate Crisis: Kids to the Rescue!

Eco-Anxiety over the looming climate crisis is affecting many young people.

When Greta Thunberg cried, "Our house is on fire!", the world listened. Youth activism is making a profound difference. Speaking out and taking action is proving to be an antidote to fear and worry about the future.

Through inspiring true stories, my presentation encourages kids to learn the science, find their voice, and imagine a more sustainable way of living on our precious Earth.

"I had (anxiety and depression) but now I have stopped having that because I have decided to do something, because the best medication against that is to take action."
Greta Thunberg

"Inspirational! Helpful and hopeful!"

"Janet's passion for social, environmental, and First Nations justice issues, as well as art, makes her a versatile and inspiring speaker."
